Again We Thank You

Last week in our ad in this paper we showed you a statement of our business since beginning about the middle of February of the present year, how each month had eclipsed the preceeding one and how our sales had quadrupled in the short period of ten months. We are proud of this record, proud of our many friends who have so liberally patronized us.

We have tried to justify this confidence imposed in us all along, by giving full value for the money and dealing squarely with every man, woman and child who has made a purchase in our store. All our previous records for sales were smashed before Xmas in this month, and during the coming year we intend to set a new high water mark for sales. Again we want to tell you how much we appreciate your business and to thank you.

LOCALS

Captain B. B. and I. H. Golden were in Corbin Sunday, between trains.

Elmer Decker, who is studying law at Louisville came home for the Xmas holidays.

L. R. Morris, of Kettle Island, was a caller in this city Wednesday between trains.

"Steers," that's the brand of candy handled by Uncle Ike, and there is none better.

Ben Walden, former student of Union College, was calling on friends here the first of the week.

Mrs. J. N. Hayes suffered a very painful accident Tuesday evening when she fell and sprained her wrist.

John Black, of Oaksdale, Wash. is spending the holidays with friends and relatives of this section.

Col. John G. Matthews left last Tuesday for Seattle where he will spend the Christmas with his family.

Uncle Ike, as usual, has in a large supply of Xmas boxes of Steers' fine candies which are on display at his cafe.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Edwards, of College Hill, have moved to this city where they will make their future home.

Dan Herndon, a student of the Louisville College of Pharmacy returned for the holidays the latter part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Herron left the latter part of last week for Liberty, Casey County, where they will make their future home.

Nobody loves a stingy man, so boys, you had better think about this and get that box of candy for her at Uncle Ike's.

Wm. Lock, former citizen of Barbourville, but at present located at Paola, Kansas, is here for a few days, enjoying himself with relatives and friends.

Uncle Ike guarantees every piece of candy sold by him to be fresh and pure. If you are dissatisfied with a single piece he refunds your money.

Vernon Faulkner and Guy I. Dickenson, two students of the Law School of State University came home for the Xmas holidays and will return about January 1st to resume their studies.

Boys, better begin to think about that box of candy that you are going to get for her Xmas. You might step into Uncle Ike's and take a look at the beautiful boxes there now.

Postmaster I. N. Bryant, of Corbin, was in our city last Sunday. His name was recently sent to the Senate by President Taft recommending that he be reappointed for the coming four years as postmaster but has not yet been confirmed.

The Pinochle Club were delightful entertained at the home of Mrs. L. W. Farmer last Saturday evening. Delicious refreshments consisting of salads were served at the conclusion of the games. The house was very beautifully decorated in red, green and white and the hand-painted tally cards were in the same colors and were artistically gotten up.

Judge J. T. Stamper and Jailer W. H. Davis went on a Boot-leg raid to Corbin last Friday and after searching a number of houses formerly used for these purposes failed to find any evidence of violation of the law. However while there they arrested a young man named Frank Cox, who was seen to conceal a pistol and he was fined $50.00 and ten days.

The Star Moving Picture Show reopened under the management of Mr. S. J. Brown, of Cloverport last Wednesday evening and was attended by a good crowd. Mr. Brown has made some needed improvements and installed a new machine and as a result the pictures are high class. The show will run three nights in each week as before, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Birthday Dinner

Mrs. J. M. Robson entertained Thursday evening with a six o'clock dinner, in honor of the birthday of her daughter, Daisy Robson. An elaborate dinner was served, a special feature of which was a delicious meat and fruit salad, made by the ten year old daughter of the hostess.

Those present were Misses Beulah Mae Huddleston, Mollie Baker, Nannie C. Trotter, Mrs. A. C. Hutson, Andrew Hutson Jr. and Professors L. L. Parks and J. Loyd Creech. A delightful evening was spent and the guests departed wishing the honoree many happy returns of the day.

To Consumptives

Rev. Edward A. Wilson was cured by simple means of a severe throat and lung affection which developed into consumption. If you will write to Mr. Chas. A. Abbott, 60 Ann St., New York City, he will send you (FREE OF CHARGE) Mr. Wilson's full description of his cure. It will cost you nothing and may prove a blessing.

COMMISSION FOR AN ARTIST

L'Oignon Hadn't a Sou, but the Job Was Not Quite What He Expected.

Robert Henri, at a Halloween supper in New York, talked of his student days in Paris.

"Then there was L'Oignon, dear old L'Oignon," said Mr. Henri, smiling pensively at a decoration of pumpkin jack-o'-lanterns. L'Oignon was always in hard luck.

"One day the poor fellow was pacing up and down in front of Jouvin's restaurant in the Boule Mich. hoping, you know, that some acquaintance would happen along and invite him in to dejeuner—of course he hadn't a sou—when a super-limousine darted out of the Boulevard Raspail, drew up, and disgorge the famous picture dealer of the Place Vendome.

"Millard rushed up to L'Oignon, seized him by both hands and cried: 'A commission for you, my dear L'Oignon! I have a commission for you. Can you attend to it at once?' 'I can indeed, cher patron,' said L'Oignon, in a tremulous voice, at a tear of joy trickled from his eye but he brushed it away hurriedly. 'What is your commission, sir?'

"The picture magnate consulted his magnificent gold repeater. 'In fifteen minutes,' he said, 'the train from Pont Aven arrives at the Gare Montparnasse. My old housekeeper—Marcelle, you know—will be on it. She's deaf and almost blind, and I want you to run up to the station, meet her, and bring her home.'

WHAT WIFEY HAD SAID

"Now, William, remember what the doctor said about your health and don't run."

AN ADVANTAGE.

"How haughtily that girl can curl her lip."
"I can do better than she can, for I can curl my hair."

THE TEST.

Little Brother—What's etiquette?
Little Bigger Brother—It's saying "No, thank you," when you want to holler "Gimme!"—Judge.

A DIFFERENCE.

"And the footpad relieved you of your valuables?"
"He took 'em, but darned if I experienced any relief!"—Judge.
